Performance shown is historical and does not guarantee future results. Current performance may be lower or higher. Because share price, principal value, and return will vary, you may have a gain or loss when you sell fund shares. There is no assurance the fund will pay dividends or capital gains in the future.

Important Risk Information

Benchmarks: The S&P 500 Index, which consists of approximately 500 large cap stocks, and a 60/40 blended monthly-rebalanced composite, weighted 60% in the aforementioned S&P 500 Index and 40% in the Barclays US Aggregate Bond Index. The Barclays US Aggregate Bond Index is a broad-based flagship benchmark that measures the investment grade, US dollar-denominated, fixed-rate taxable bond market. The index includes Treasuries, government-related and corporate securities, MBS (agency fixed-rate and hybrid ARM pass-throughs), ABS and CMBS (agency and non-agency).

Definitions: A put option is an option contract giving the owner the right, but not the obligation, to sell a specified amount of an underlying security at a specified price within a specified time. At the Money refers to an options contract where an option's strike price, or the price at which the option contract can be exercised, is identical to the price of the underlying security. Near the Money refers to an options contract where an option's strike price is close to the current market price of the corresponding underlying security. The Sharpe Ratio is used for calculating risk-adjusted return by measuring the average return earned in excess of the risk-free rate per unit of volatility or total risk. Standard Deviation is a measure of the dispersion of a set of data from its mean. The more spread apart from the benchmark, the higher the deviation. Beta is a measure of the volatility, or dispersion, of a security or a portfolio in comparison to the market as a whole. The effectiveness of the hedge and degree of downside mitigation varies with market conditions. The DRS can and does have periods of losses.

Mutual Funds involve risk, including possible loss of principal. ETFs are subject to investment advisory and other expenses, which will be indirectly paid by the Fund. As a result, the cost of investing in the Fund will be higher than the cost of investing directly in ETFs and may be higher than other mutual funds that invest directly in stocks. ETFs are subject to specific risks, depending on the nature of the fund. Investments in underlying funds that own small and mid-capitalization companies may be more vulnerable than larger, more established organizations. Investments in foreign securities could subject the Fund to greater risks including currency fluctuation, economic conditions, and different governmental and accounting standards. The use of leverage, such as that embedded in options, could magnify the Fund's gains or losses. Written option positions expose the Fund to potential losses many times the option premium received.

The adviser's dependence on its DRS process and judgments about the attractiveness, value and potential appreciation of particular ETFs and options in which the Fund invests or writes may prove to be incorrect and may not produce the desired results. Purchased put options may expire worthless and may have imperfect correlation to the value of the Fund's sector ETFs. Written call and put options may limit the Fund's participation in equity market gains and may amplify losses in market declines. The Fund's losses are potentially large in a written put or call transaction. If un-hedged, written calls expose the Fund to potentially unlimited losses.
